THE MULHOLLAND CASE.

At Cincinnati Friday the Beard of Appeals of the American Turf Congress readered a decision that may be productive of serious results in the San Francisco racing field. The case is thus detailed in the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune of Saturday. It might be said in passing, that Fred Mulholland has for a number of years past been the sporting editor of the San Francisco Call, and has also acted as judge at the race meetings of the Montana circuit and at Denver. The Commercial Tribune says:

"A decision rendered yesterday by the Committee on Appeals of the Turf Congress, which met in the Covington, Ky., offices, has an important bearing on the fight that is going on between President Tom Williams, of the Oakland track, in California, and Ed Corrigan, the controlling spirit of the Ingleside and Tanforan tracks, near San Francisco. Judge Jeseph Murphy, of the Oakland track, having in view the case of Fred Mulholland, asked that the Appeals Committee decide whether or not rule 18 was retroactive. At the last meeting of the Turf Congress in Chicago, 1898, this rule was made to read as follows:

"'Every person or horse expelled or ruled off by any reputable running association or the National Trotting Association shall stand ruled off the courses of the members of the Congress during the continuance of such expulsion.'

"Prior to this the rule read the same way with the exception that 'for fraud' was in serted. The above rule was passed at Chicago at the instance of Ed Corrigan, who aimed it at Fred Mulholland, at that time in the employ of the Oakland track as patrol judge. Back of this action of Corrigan is an interesting story. Fred Mulholland in 1899 reported the races in Frisco for the San Francisco Call, and in the course of events he severely criticised the racing at Corrigan's Ingleside track. This angered Cor rigan, who had Mulholland ruled off the turf by the Ingleside authorities, the action being taken in June, 1899. President Tom Williams. of Oakland, promptly took up Mulholland and appointed him patrol judge at his ck. Mulholland, not having been ruled for fraud, was eligible to hold such position without the association emhim conflicting with the rules of the Turf Congress. This did not suit Corrigan who accordingly had the new rule 18 passed by the Turf Congress, to be effective from January 1, 1900. Thus, according to the new rule, Mulholland would not be allowed on any Turf Congress tracks or any other tracks which were reputable and were recognized by the Turi Congress and Jockey Club. Persons ruled off for other than fraud prior to this new rule however, claimed it did not affect them, as it was not retroactive. Judge Murphy, to get a decision on the rule, asked the Appeals Committee to interpret it. After deliberating on the rule, Mesers. E. F. Clay, George Long and orge Perkins, the Appeals Committee, de-ed that the new rule affected all persons roled off the turf for any cause whatever prior to its passage. The decision of the committee is as follows:

"It is the judgment of the Committee on Appeals that under the power of the Turf Congress to regulate racing and to determine what persons and horses shall participate therein, rule 18 applies since January 1, 1900, to all persons and horses ruled off or expelled for any cause prior to said date."

"According to this decision Mulholland will not even be allowed on any Turf Congress tracks or independent reputable courses, and, while Oakland is an independent organization and races under its own rules, it has always followed the rulings of the Turf Congress and Jockey Club. The decision of the Appeals Committee is a victory for Corrigan, but it is feared it may precipitate a fight between Oakland and the Turf Congress. Tom Williams is a bitter enemy of Corrigan, and will not even accept his entries at Oakland, and it is feared he will disregard the rulings of the Appeals Committee and still employ Mulholland. In case Williams sticks to Mulholland the Turf Congress will be forced to take action against the Oakland track. Thus it will be seen that Corrigan has drawn the Turf Congress into his fight against Williams, and as the latter is a fighter of no mean caliber, the outcome will be watched with much interest, and there is a possibility of a bitter war being waged, the outcome of which is problematical.

"The Turf Congress Appeals Committee did not act on the case of 'Curly' Brown, the exstarter, who applied for reinstatement, and it has been indefinitely postponed. Brown was to have presented further evidence in his case yesterday, but it did not arrive in time, and two of the committee—E. F. Clay and George Long departed for their homes."

PETE CLAY'S MISCHANCES.

"Dutch" Roller, who is spending the winter in San Francisco, brought out jockey Pete Clay, who went insane at New Orleans last week. Clay came to the front last summer by riding the great mare Imp in all her races.

"That boy has met with more hard luck than any ten riders you can name," said Mr. Roller yesterday, when he was told that Clay had gone insane, but his condition is not serious. "It seems as if his life has been one great chapter of accidents, terrible accidents, too. The first fall Pete had was down at Long Branch about seven years ago. He was thrown from a two-year-old I owned, and remained unconscious for two days.

'The loctors said he had concussion of the brain, and we never expected to see him alive again. We kept his head packed in ice, and the pain he suffered was simply terrible. Then I owned a little mare by the name of Kittie Van. One day Pete was riding her at full speed and she dropped dead, throwing him on his head. Clay was picked up unconscious, and it was a long time before he could ride again. That happened at Guttenberg in the winter. nember Jimmy McCornick, who always liked Clay, used to tell how he awoke Clay Pete was very fond of pie. Whenever he dissipated he did it by consuming a dozen or more big pies. McCornick used to say he aroused Pete by yelling in his ear, 'The p ie-man is com ing.' That brought him to his senses. Then Little Fred ran away one day on the track, and started for the stable. Just as he got near the or, which was closed, a rein dropped down and Little Fred stepped on it, which threw Clay right up against the door head first. That was a hard fall.

"Then again at Montreal Pete's jaw was broken and his head jammed in an accident. But the hardest fall he got, and which must have affected his brain, happened at Fersythe when Carnation dropped dead. Carnation fell at the five-eighths pole, throwing Pete head-foremost against it, It was a standing joke at Forsythe that the pole had to be reset after Pete struck it. This time he was unconscious three days and we all gave him up for dead. I guess that accident cest me several hundred dollars. I had a doctor come every day from Chicago, and he charged me $100 every trip. Pete came out all right, but I think these falls affected his brain. I hope he is not permanently insane, for I think a great deal of him. Pete was a boy of a great deal of sense. He walked into a indege's stand and out up the hettest argument you ever heard. And he talked so convincingly that you had to believe him."—San Francisco Bulletin.

HARSHBERGER'S SENTENCE.

New Orleans, La., Jan, 27—After investigation of the Cotton Plant race of January 22, when Harshberger pulled the horse up at the post, the stewards decided today to continue Harshberger's suspension to April 1. Their decision in jockey Forehand's case was that his suspension from all privileges is to continue indefinitely.

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.

The great importance of the racing law nov n force in this State to the fair and agriculural associations is made menifest through the returns annually sent to the comptroller at Of course, the reports of the jockey clubs in what has come to be known as the metropolitan circuit are of chief interest. Racing hereaway is conducted on an elaborate and costly scale. Large prizes are annually contested The natural result is that breeders obtain good prices for the stock that goes under the Employment is given to many at wages that otherwise they could not command The state tax of five per cent. on gross receipts is without doubt stiff and onerous, but the jockey clubs seem to thrive under it, and many farmers are benefited by it. Besides, all the ockey clubs are prompt in the settlement of their obligations, which counts for a good deal Racing is to field sports what grand opera is te indoor amusements. It is high priced, but it is satisfactory as well. The state will receive from the Westchester, Sheepshead Bay, Brooklyn, Saratoga, Brighton Beach and Aqueduct associations, for percentages in 1899, considerably upward of $100,000. This wast sum will return to the pockets of the farmers. The Brooklyn Jockey Club alone has sent the comptroller its check for $23,246, an increase of more than $5,000 over 1898. The legislators of Illinois and other western states could not do better for their agriculturists than adopt the Percy Gray law. It has filled the bill in New York, and like results can be commanded elsewhere,— Exchange.

TWO-YEAR-OLDS RACED TOO EARLY.

The Hitchcock amendment to the Rules of Racing which provided that "before June 1 in each year no two-year-old shall run in any race with more than $1,000 added," was killed at the last meeting of the Jockey Club. As was to be expected when subjected to the rigid scrutiny of practical turfmen it was found lacking in capacity to prevent the evils aimed at. The object of the amendment in aiming at the curtailment to two-year-olds racing was a commendable one, but its inefficiency to accomplish the desired end was too apparent to require com ment or discussion, and had it been adepted it would not have decreased two-year-old racing to any appreciable extent. The added money being fixed at $1,000 would have made two-yearold stakes attractive and worth running for.
One thousand dollars added makes in addition to entrance a jnicy stake, and owners would have been after it early in the season, for purchasers of yearlings are se eager for them to begin earning their oats and repaying investments in them that they would never ignore a thousand dollar stake, when they race their youngsters for much less money.

The only practical way to curtail two-year-old racing is to prohibit it unequivocally until after a certain date, say July 1, and to decrease the number and value of two-year-old stakes. This policy would no doubt be strenuously opby breeders and owners, but there can be no doubt that the turf and the race horse would be eventually improved thereby. It would necessitate a more gradual development and prevent such a dearth of class in the three-yearold and upward division; more money could be given to the three-year-old events and handi-caps, there would be more inducements for longer distance races inasmuch as we would have better material to draw on for the contests, racing would be more on the level, the patrons of the sport better pleased, and the breeding interests improved by furnishing a guide to the breeder as to what strains were to be used to develop the thoroughbred into a more perfect horse than he is even at this date after a couple of centuries of supposed pro-

An old turfman once gave the characteristics of a race horse as speed, more speed, and yet a little more, and while his idea was good as far as it goes, it is not the ultimatum of excelce, for there must be a physical foundation to sustain the speed or else it is worthless for practical use. The speed of the locomotive is almost limitless, but without the fuel boiler capacity for steam the great horse would be useless. So, when the horse has speed combined with weak iron bone and muscle and defective lung and heart power, he is unable to fill his legitimate mission in this life. Two-year-old racing encourages forced development, early training, short distance sprints and the intensifying of physical and anatomical defects in the effe ure speed. There can be little doubt but that continuous mating of animals whose defects may have originally been artificial will produce after several generations imperfection which will become constitutional and hereditary and transmissible to future generations. We must apply the principle of evolution to evil as well as good, and experience shows that man and beast are subject to hereditary ailments which probably in some far away ancestor was the result of abnormal and unnatural condiexamination of the modern race horse in the majority of cases shows a very light bone below the knee, with often defective feet and posterns This condition is evidently due in a me the forcing process and not allowing the bone and horn sufficient time for natural growth, and finally must become hereditary and transmissible to future progeny. The first step to-ward the remedy of the evil is to curtail two year-old racing and offer such inducements for older horses as will encourage owners to wait with their two-year-elds and give them the chance to develop naturally.—Turf, Field and

Winner—Br. h. by Hayden Edwards—Bettie Blaise.
Went to post at 3:50. At post 10 minutes. Start bad. Won easily; second the same. Bannockburn is now probably the best horse ever seen in California. He was always within reaching cistance, ran agrand race and was well ridden. Flamora ran a faster mile than the winner and with an even break would have given the winner treable. She came to even terms with Bannockburn a furlong from home and then fell back, but was coming again at the end. Dr. Sheppard was sent off a half dozen lengths in front but quit in the stretch. Rosermonde and David Tenny could never get close to the leaders. It was a remarkable race.
